This was implemented for comparisons on DNA contents,
ITS copies per cell, and the ratios of DNA contents estimated using the two DNA extraction methods in each species, and the ratios of ITS copies quantified from DNA samples extracted using the two methods in each species.

The DNA samples were extracted by four different DNA isolation methods: phenol extraction, QIAGEN column purification, and automated Chemagen and Genra (Autopure). However, other authors [9] showed that DNA quality and final concentration were critical variables to obtain reproducible melting curves for identical loci. Genomic DNA extraction methods using formalin-fixed ...

DNA isolation was carried out by three extraction methods: Qiagen QIAamp DNA FFPE tissue kit, phenol-chloroform extraction, and AFA-based extraction using the Covaris truXTRAC FFPE DNA kit. For the Qiagen method, 24 sections of 10- $\mu$ m-thick FFPE tissues were used as suggested by the manufacturer with some modifications as follows.
